

Ann Miller
Trainer

Ann Miller holds a Master's degree in Early Childhood Education. She is a Mindful Schools trained educator with 30 years' experience as an early childhood and kindergarten teacher. She recently returned from a 3-year teaching post at the American International School in Dhaka, Bangladesh where she taught kindergarten and volunteered on weekends in a school in Dhaka's slums.

Ann has devoted her career to responding to the educational needs of young children from impoverished communities who have experienced childhood adversities. She is passionate about working with young children and their parents in hopes of changing the trajectory of their lives through trauma-informed practice and relationship centered teaching.

Committing to Our Future by Making a Difference for Children Today!
